

Opus continue community commitment

Mayor Stuart Crosby and Chief Executive Stephen Town (both at left) are joined at the re-signing by the Opus team: Tauranga Manager Nick Gurr (seated right) and standing (from second left) Chief Executive and Managing Director Kevin Thompson, General Manager NZ Operations James Phillis and Central Regional Manager Gary Dela Rue.

Opus International Consultants have re-signed as a Principal City Partner. Opus, a partner since 2004, have committed to the programme for a further five years.

The professional services consultancy provides infrastructural asset-related services in transportation and utilities engineering, planning, property, facilities management, surveying, architecture, along with structural, electrical and mechanical engineering. At a local level Opus manages the roading networks in Tauranga city and Western Bay of Plenty. They have designed and managed utilities projects, along with roading, resource consents and reserves work.

Opus are making a real difference in the community through their City Partner contributions. They have been actively involved in the redevelopment of Kopurerua Valley, assisted with the City Flagpole project, are developing a masterplan for the historic Brain Watkins House and have assisted the Tauranga BMX Club to design an international standard race track.

Tauranga Manager Nick Gurr said Opus were happy to re-commit to the City Partnership Programme because of the value of the relationship at all levels of TCC forged through the partnership. "It has created and maintained a positive and cooperative working environment, and has provided a mechanism to directly contribute to community outcomes."
